

What can we do about the careers problem?

Martin McLean

Education & Training Policy
Advisor

The evidence of what is not working

From our Youth Advisory Board's research:

Careers support is patchy and varying in quality/priority

Lack of deaf-specific information

Families not engaged with careers support

Deaf young people are not the 'boss of their deafness'

Limited aspirations for deaf young people

The evidence for what works

And what are we going to do?

Launch a 'campaign' to:

- Improve professional practice at all levels
- Expose young people, parents, professionals and teachers to positive deaf role models
- Increase access to volunteering and work experience
- Improve information for deaf young people and their families about their rights in employment and the support available to them